

SHAPING RECOVERY: THE CHALLENGE FOR THE RESIDENTIAL SECTOR

The NTA has been holding a series of Shaping Recovery conferences across the country, designed to raise the profile of the residential sector in the light of the emphasis on recovery in the government's Drug Strategy. Providers spoke about how they are listening to commissioners and clients in order to adapt their business models appropriately. Read reviews from the London and Bristol events.

'Building recovery' – five weeks left to have your say on the shape of the new drugs framework

Under the working title, Building recovery in communities, the NTA is consulting on the development of a new framework to provide better access to a complete range of services to support people in sustaining their recovery. View the consultation.

STATEMENT FROM THE NTA ON NATIONAL DRUG TREATMENT STATISTICS

An article in the latest edition of Addiction Today asserts inaccurately that "drug free is formally defined in government statistics as being on drugs." While many other claims in the article could also be challenged, the NTA is concerned to set the record straight on this particular topic.
